GIFT GUIDES

The best gifts for guys who love to ski and snowboard: holiday 2017

Make sure everyone on your list hits the slopes in style this season with our favorite editor-approved gear.

WE'LL ADMIT IT: An addiction to snow sports is basically an addiction to snow sports gear. Between the harsh conditions and challenging terrain, cheap equipment just means you're either accustomed to being miserable, or you like being cold, wet, and on your ass most of the time.

Either way, check out this gift guide—it's specially curated for the skier or snowboarder who wants to step up to the latest and greatest in holiday mountain sports gear. We scoured through the newest slope-side stuff to find the products that offer bleeding-edge tech that will help you push your abilities beyond your limit, all while making your time on the hill warm and dry.

20. FatCat EVO by Yakima

Get your skis and snowboards slope-side in style with this new mount from Yakima. The FatCat EVO is its quietest holder yet, but it's still big enough to carry six skis or four snowboards. The universal mounting system means it can be hooked up to almost any rack. The DoubleJoint hinge and SkiLift mechanism means thick skis and boards will fit while tall snowboard bindings can be overcome. ($279, yakima.com)
